Nazi Bids to Chase Russia's Arctic Supply Line Fails

Denial of Treaty Rights
"Due to War Conditions"
Brings Retaliatory Move

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(CP)—The far northern supply route to Russia, past Cape North in Norway and into the Arctic seaports of Archangel and Murmansk, is standing up, despite all the efforts of the Germans to block it with sea and air attacks, it was stated here yesterday by J. C. Patten, Canadian-born director of transport for the British ministry of supply.

Nazi Political Drive Failure
With neutrals

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—The Press Association's diplomatic correspondent reported that the political offensive which Germany planned to synchronize with her military campaign in Russia and Egypt has proved a "damp squib".

Neutral countries, he added, have been subjected to intensified pressure and propaganda, but so far have proved unimpaired and unaffected, especially since the great slaughter on the Don front began.

Sweden's attitude among the non-belligerents is "perhaps typical," the correspondent said. "Sweden's danger, still, is that threatening her neutrality and independence. Yet her press and wireless do not permit her to let the Germans prevail what the Swedes think of the matter, but the Nazis used against the Norwegian situation."

The correspondent quoted a Swedish newspaper as saying, "a regime which resorts to such barbarous methods has admitted its foundations are shaky." Hitler tried hard to use the death of Turkey, premier, as a fulcrum to his propaganda lever but within 24 hours a new government was formed which calmly proceeded on a policy of strict neutrality and prudence, reaffirming immediately its friendship with Britain, the correspondent added.

50 Nazis Killed

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—Reuters today quoted the Stockholm press by Sig as reporting that German soldiers, including a local Gestapo chief named Wald, had been killed in a fight with Polish guerrillas at Lublin.

PREMIER ASKS "FACTS" BEFORE DECISION

Secret Session Urged on Grave St. Lawrence Incidents

Members Express Concern Over Reports of Neglect: New Enemy Action Hinted

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—Unofficial reports of further, unreported incidents in the lower St. Lawrence, and of "irregularities" and neglect of duty in responsible quarters, were heard in the House of Commons yesterday when J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe), asked for a secret sitting to discuss these matters.

Conservative House Leader Hanson joined with Mr. Roy in urging a secret sitting and asserted that he, like Mr. Roy, had received numerous reports of a startling nature.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the members that they should confine their private information to the defence ministers and a decision on a secret sitting could not be reached until such information reached the ministry.

FEARS DUTY NEGLECTED

Mr. Roy said his information was such as to lead him to believe that there is reason to fear that persons responsible for the protection of our coastal waters have been negligent in their duty.

Mr. Hanson said that information was such that would make me believe that all is not well. It did not do with what happened which was already known and other things which also happened and which have not yet been divulged.

He added: "I think the Prime Minister and members of the government will know to what I am alluding."

There have been two reported incidents in the St. Lawrence involving sinking of ships—a total of five vessels have been announced as torpedoed and sunk.

Mr. Roy adopted the time-honoured method of moving around the house to discuss a matter of urgent public importance following further developments of a very grave nature.

But when this objective discussion had been completed, he was not permitted to make closing remarks with which to urge the motion to adjourn, and so refused to withdraw.

OPPOSED HIM TO A VOICE

The result was a vote of 111 to 55 against adjournment with Mr. Roy of the opposition and some Liberals voting for the motion.

Mr. King said there had been no offence asking happened and he would be surprised if there are not more and the people should accept these possibilities.

He questioned the necessity of a secret sitting whenever there is a case of unreported incidents, the house that all possible steps were being taken to meet the danger.

Navy Minister Macdonald was not in the house and Mr. King said he was visiting Coldwater and Midland. On ships on duty directly associated with this problem.

LONG DISCUSSION

The discussion occupied nearly two hours and brought speeches in support of the motion from Mr. Coldwell (C.P.F. house), Rev. E. G. Galt, for the New Democratic Party and Jack Macdonald, P.C. (Lib., Temiskaming). T. L. Chubb (Cons., Toronto-Broadview) opposed the motion.

Mr. Roy asked for "an immediate secret session" in which to discuss grave events which have occurred within the last few days in the St. Lawrence and which this house should be fully informed.

To give details in open session would be to give information to the enemy, Mr. Roy said, "that the government is not in a position to believe that there is reason to fear that persons responsible for the protection of our coastal waters have been negligent in their duty."

Speaker Gies suggested that there was a "degree of urgency" in the motion and he would prefer that the member have permission to proceed.

Under rule 31 of house proceedings a member may make such a motion, when it is to discuss a matter of urgent public importance and if it is to be taken into consideration it is in order he may grant permission.

If there is an objection, the speaker calls for those supporting the motion to rise. If more than 20 members rise the member is permitted to proceed with his discussion.

PREMIER PROTESTS

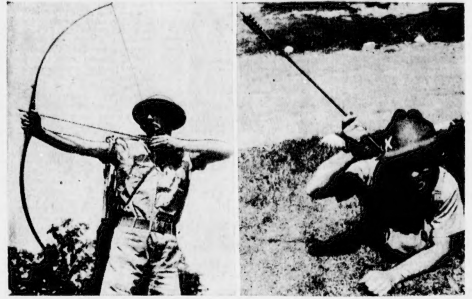

In this instance Prime Minister Mackenzie King protested but since the motion remained on the agenda a secret sitting the government which has sole responsibility for handling or refusing to accept actions, cannot be possible of the information that it is in a position to discuss the matter.

Mr. Hanson said to debate the question at this point supporting Mr. Roy and deciding that he had the right to make a motion of a startling nature.

Speaker Gies called him to order and I said objection to the motion and he asked supporting members to stand. Mr. Roy then, a second, Liggett (Cons., C.N. Laval) Two Ministers were supported by most of the opposition and Mr. Roy was instructed to proceed.

Mr. King intervened to say that he had not objected to the motion but had merely asked if other members of the government which Mr. Roy said was in his power before deciding on a secret session.

"Head Down, Soldier, Or You'll Get An Arrow"

The old game of "cowboys and Indians" is back as part of the training for modern warfare with the Canadian army at No. 20 basic training centre in Brantford, Ont. The troops say it is the oddest and rarest game of stalking outside of commando training. Capt. Ben Bolt (left) is the bowman, and he acts as the target. The men are sent out to stalk him, and if they aren't careful they'll get an arrow in the head as the soldier on the right, but nobody gets hurt in this training. The captain and his soldiers wear steel helmets, and the arrows have rubber heads.

learn from the general public facts which had not been made known by the newspapers.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Mr. Hanson moved an amendment which would have the effect of opening the proposed secret sitting to cover any matter respecting the war effort, but it was ruled out of order by Speaker Gies since the motion to adjourn was not amended.

When ships were sunk in the St. Lawrence it was front-page news in the United States but the Canadian censorship was "no ally" that the news was kept from Canadians.

It was not for the government to decide whether there was to be a secret session, but for parliament.

Before the war many German and Japanese merchant vessels and even ships of war had been in the St. Lawrence area and there was no doubt they were fully informed about the area.

There was no excuse for duplicating what had happened in the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Church said there was no necessity for a secret sitting and he complained that Canada got less information on their own war activities than other countries. "We have had too much secrecy altogether," he said.

Mr. Pouliot, whose riding is in the lower St. Lawrence river shore, supported the motion and said a secret sitting was necessary since the government was "always using the pretext" that information would be given to the enemy.

BRITISH RESPONSIBILITY

He argued against any suggestion that protection of the St. Lawrence was the responsibility of the British navy.

Mr. Pouliot said he had repeatedly argued the importance of defending Canada but the more serious the situation, the more difficult there was in getting them adopted.

"The reason is that at the controls in the various branches of the government, the men to whom Canada counts for nothing," he declared.

Later Mr. King took Mr. Pouliot to task for this statement. He said he felt a responsibility to the nation to explain to a charge that some of the heads of the war departments were not all concerned with Canada.

Mr. Pouliot: "Hear, hear."

Mr. King: "I am ashamed to say 'Hear, hear' if I were no honorable fool."

Mr. Pouliot: "Opinions may be free and I am afraid that the opinion of the public will have of my honorable friend for condemning public servants who are doing their duty to defend this country and to defend freedom but not such as will meet with his approval."

Mr. Pouliot: "Why do you not speak to the slackers in uniform and even about the military?"

After Mr. Lacombe had spoken briefly in support of the motion, Speaker Gies asked Mr. Roy if he was prepared to withdraw the motion, but he refused to do so, and the question of the purpose has been accomplished.

KING TAKES FLOOR

"I will withdraw if Mr. Speaker but if there are no members who will stand with me," Mr. Roy answered, making a reply to the previous speaker.

The prime minister said it was apparent that some members wanted an open discussion and others a secret sitting, adding "It seems to me that the government does it as wrong."

Mr. King urged both Mr. Roy and Mr. Hanson to give to the information they had on the St. Lawrence situation.

He reminded the house that there had been a very large number of ships sunk off the Nova Scotia coast and there had been an attack on the Pacific coast itself.

He said I am sure that it will be a very great surprise. I think that the recurrence of the kind do not take place at any time, on either coast, and I think this could most accept these possibilities.

Indeed the government has the right of such a vote which, it earned and it was most advantageous of the house until tomorrow.

Publication Drew Letter Violates Act

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—A spokesman for the press censorship department said last night that publication in full of the letter written by Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, criticizing the report of the Hong Kong inquiry commission, would be regarded as an infringement of the Defence of Canada regulations.

Partial publication would not be objected to by the censorship, provided no part of the letter published infringed the regulations.

The spokesman said this would mean that the "most interesting" parts of the letter could not be published.

Mr. King informed the House of Commons Wednesday night that the letter from Col. Drew, a commission counsel at the inquiry into the Hong Kong expedition, would not be tabled in the House.

VIOLATE SECRECY

The Prime Minister said tabling the letter would violate an undertaking in keeping secret certain information obtained from the British government. He also said that it carried implications upon the integrity and judgment of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, who conducted the inquiry of a royal commission.

FALL BACK IN ORDER

The Germans are striking eastward to Stalingrad and elsewhere and the Russian army is falling back in good order. According to a report from Ankara, a large army has been sent to the front, including a fresh 100,000-man central Asiatic army.

GREAT IMPORTANCE

The importance of holding Stalingrad cannot be overestimated. Its loss would mean the loss of the great Volga waterway route for the transportation of oil from the Caucasus and of supplies from the Allies. It would leave the railroad northward from Astrakhan to a tank artery to the Caucasus.

The broad lines of German strategy are plain. They intend, if they can reach Stalingrad, to strike the oil fields. This is the key route and would obviate the stupor of task of trying to cross the Caucasus mountains.

At the same time, the German headquarter in Russia, the month of the Don, both through the present and the future, and railroad from Tientsin. Yesterday's aerial bombing of Russia might be preliminary to the latter advance.

Another drive to the Caucasus from the Crimea is being planned. The Kerch strait is also extremely important. It is a key to the Caucasus shore also was bombed yesterday.

Linked with their attempt to strike the middle east through Egypt, the Germans have launched a campaign for that entire area on an incredible grand scale.

7 Alberta Airmen Presented "Wings"

YORKTOWN, Sask., July 17.—(CP)—The 7 Alberta airmen of the Royal Canadian Air Force received their wings today in a ceremony here yesterday. Airmen receiving wings were: (a) C. Cook, Lethbridge; (b) W. H. Worthington, Calgary; (c) D. Hall, Calgary; (d) R. G. Remick, Calgary; (e) J. Shoen, Calgary; (f) T. Terrell, Edmonton.

for the administration to do in considering situations and seeking to meet them.

"But the question we must ask ourselves is whether each time a slip is tripped off one coast or the other, in some way it takes place, it is to be the duty of the government to hold a secret session in order to discuss that particular situation."

When the government was in possession of the information in the hands of those making the request, decision would be made on the secret sitting, the prime minister said.

Mr. Roy said he wanted to make some further observations but when Speaker Gies ruled that he could not speak again he refused to withdraw the motion and with the support of some opposition members, moved that the government should accept these possibilities.

Speaker Gies remarked on the rarity of such a vote which, it earned and it was most advantageous of the house until tomorrow.

Wasting The Enemy

The present battle in North Africa differs from those which preceded it. The others were battles of movement. This is a battle of position—and may continue to be such indefinitely. The events of the past week suggest "ding-dong" fighting may go on in the present area, rather than a "leave" either east or west.

Both sides have been feeding reinforcements and equipment into armies which were too evenly matched to give either an opportunity to overwhelm the other. The fighting is incessant and bitter. Though the forces engaged are relatively small, the struggle has been as fierce as any on the Russian front.

The Empire forces took the initiative at the outset. Though they have never lost it, they have not been able to turn it to decisive account. They have made some gains, but only local and restricted to the capture of ridges which give them better fighting ground. They have captured considerable numbers of prisoners, but in the confused mêlée the enemy may also have captured some.

There is room to suspect that Auchinleck is not anxious to repeat Wavell's spectacular sweep across Libya. Where he is, his supply lines are short. The enemy long and difficult. At El Alamein, he may think, is as good a place as any in which to chop Rommel's army to pieces and dispose of the air-bombing elements brought across from Crete.

It is significant that the Axis parachute troops mobilized in that island have not been flown down to the Nile valley. Rommel is calling on them to make up his losses in the western desert; and the Empire forces are taking care of them as they arrive.

More Money?

A Liberal member of the Commons from Ontario—one of all unlikely parts of the Dominion—suggests that instead of borrowing and taxing for the whole amount of the year's expenditures, parliament should instruct the Government to issue $1,200,000,000 "at least" of new currency.

It is refreshing to note that even in the home area where the expense of the public authority to break up a credit of financial straits is creating new money. Mr. Stagg's proposal would be safe, sane and effective if the country was enduring that condition.

But it isn't. There is no money shortage in Canada. The physical supply is quite equal to the requirements. There never was so much in circulation before, and it never could be so rapidly. Whatever may be hampering the war effort or ordinary business, it is not a money scarcity.

To issue any such amount of new currency would expand buying power, not simply to that amount, but to several times that amount, through the expansion of credit. Credit-expansion is one of the inevitable results of large money-expansion—a very definite danger to the country is paralyzed by stagnation. But not a desirable result now. There would follow immediately a "spree" of civilian spending, which would drive the economy out of keeping a ceiling on prices and divert labor from war to non-essential production.

The time for the Government to step into the picture with an enlarged issue of currency is when money is tight and dear. That is not, we may be thankful, one of the troubles of the present day.

The Allies Need The Oil

Alberta's tar sands are in prospect of becoming before long something more than one of the wonders of the Great Lone Land, and a basis for experimental and pioneer development work. Utilization of the deposit on a large scale appears to be definitely on the program, if an investigation now under way turns out as those familiar with the sands are convinced it will.

The Dominion Government has allocated funds for a fast, thorough and final examination of the deposit, and character of the deposit, and Hon. C. D. Howe stated on Wednesday that the report is expected to be ready in six weeks.

This sudden awakening of national interest in the long-awaited oil of the neglected tar sands is a compensatory outcome of the Axis submarine war on shipping. Oil is scarce because tankers have been sunk. South of the equator, oil and war needs have expanded the demand out of all peacetime precedent.

The Allies must have oil in larger quantities. They need new sources, particularly in areas secure from enemy attack and conveniently located. The deposit at McMurray is known to be one of the world's great reservoirs, and ways have been found to successfully extract the oil from the sand "sponge" in which it is held.

Coal does not count in a war demand has to be met. Money, public or private, is now available for the development of this resource—as it was not when ample supplies of oil could be obtained by hauling the liquid away from wells in tankers, trucks and railway cars or allowing it to flow through pipe lines. The mining force behind the proposed development of the tar sands is irresistible. The Allies need the oil.

The Best Plan In Sight

Representatives of the prairie provinces are at Ottawa, urging new Dominion legislation aimed at solving the western farm debt problem. The plan they propose is that adopted at the Saskatoon conference. Federal legislation is sought because provincial enactments have been held to be ultra vires, and parliament declared to be the only body competent to deal with the matter.

The proposal involves the setting up of a tribunal—more than one if necessary—clothed with broad powers to write down farm debts, reduce interest rates, change terms of payment, and revise its own decisions in the light of subsequent events.

That is a radical proposal, and as such will not be immediately popular in all parts of the Dominion. The idea will no doubt be opposed by representatives from some of the older provinces, who will regard it as something akin to robbery of their constituents who have loaned money on western farms.

Any such notion is a fallacy. What is proposed is only that the facts of the situation be recognized in law and means be taken to deal with them. Western farm debts are not and never will be worth their face value, in a regrettable large proportion of cases. There is no use pretending otherwise. Any use of such a stalemate which is in reality as hopeless for the creditor as for the debtor.

Despite all the Dominion has done in the end of the matter, the debt "mess" is still a mess, and will continue to be until some other means of bringing about a new financial operation. The plan suggested could hardly fail, given adjusters who knew their business and were seriously minded to make an end of the financial mess. Parliament should have no hesitation about passing the necessary legislation and getting the tribunal—or tribunals—at work.

Injustice To Indians

By Galbraith

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Bulletin: I have lived among the Indians of the Peace River country and in all the time I have never had anything brought to my attention which would show the complete injustice that has been perpetrated against the Indians of the region.

COMPLETE SELL-OUT
All-Time Record Believed
Established As 11,000 At Fair Grandstand Feature

A probable all-time record attendance of 11,000 for a grandstand performance at the Edmonton Exhibition Association's summer fair was achieved on Thursday evening when patrons flocked to witness the "On to Victory Show," the precision drill, and listen to the band of the No. 16 C.I. T.S., Calgary. The previous record was 10,500.

Two Hawaiian
Princesses Are Fair Feature

Two beautiful Hawaiian princesses, stars of stage and screen, are the featured entertainers in "Aloha Land" on the Frolic Land midway at the Edmonton Exhibition all this week.

Princess Luana, star of the motion picture, "Hula Girl," and "Hawaiian Nights," and Princess Ali, a hit in one of Ed Wynn's most recent stage successes, are the two native beauties.

With the accent on beauty, grace and harmony, these girls lead a large chorus in Bill Holt's new production. The band, one of the few native bands on the present, accompany the girls with their own limbo rhythmic version of such sea tunes.

POPULAR STARS

Such stars as Aloha Shaw, featured last season at the Broadway's gayest nightingale, the "Hurricane," and Mollie Kane, little Hawaiian girl, put out feeling into their version of these two Hawaiian tunes. Mr. Holt, in addition, has some of the best known actors for his orchestra, with the musical highlights of Phil Barlow, a radio broadcaster. The singing and dancing in Aloha Land is genuine as the majority of the performers are from the beautiful island in the Pacific.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Aloha Land is but one of the many outstanding exhibitions on the grandstand and every conceivable form of entertainment is represented on the mile-long midway.

For real thrills, nothing can compare with the exciting and animal performance presented by Ted and Jack the "Lion King." Jacobs presents a full one-hour circus performance complete with jaguars, tumbler acrobats, performing elephants and acrobats, trained horses and funny clowns. The climax in his show comes when he works with 25 trained and trained lions and tigers in the steel arena. Jacobs has recently started the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

POPULAR FEATURE

"Magazine Covers," a presentation by Tommy McClure, well-known Toronto performer, features a boy of beautiful models who recite the same poem before the studios of the artist. Many of them will be reproductions of their original poses for the magazine and publications.

CURIOUS PROFILE

Jack Halligan's big Circus Sideshow shows 20 of nature's most curious people, including a half-dwarf, half-boy; Christine, the emerald girl, nearest thing to a real Greek Gorgon; and a blind man who can see by his hair. Jimmy Jagers, a human pin cushion, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, the "Gorilla Girl," and Kato and company, champion fire show and sword swallowers.

Other shows on the amusement area are Bob and Ted's "Lion of Death," "Darkest Africa," "Monkey Land," "Oriental Polka" and "Waterdance."

Robber Tortures
Get Victim To
Ad Hidden Cash

ALVENA, Sask., July 17.—(CP)—Threatened with death, tortured with a sharp weapon and held with a chain, after being tied blindfold and foot and muffled by a bag pulled over her head, Mrs. Alexander Chyck, 48, disclosed the hiding place of her money to a robber who escaped with $275 in cash.

The story of the crime was told here yesterday by Gene Anderson, non-lawyer of the victim, a small, middle-aged woman who lived alone with her 30-year-old husband on an isolated farm. Her husband was absent at the time of the robbery last Thursday. The aged couple were robbed of $800 last year.

Oats King Here

William "Bill" Skelton, of Anner, world's oats king, was in the city Thursday attending to grain matters as well as taking in the fair.

"Skelton" was derived from the fact he was "sold" meaning "a man who is sold."

Summer School
Teachers Hold
Mass Meeting

Alberta teachers attending the summer school at the University held a special mass meeting Thursday afternoon, at which several resolutions were passed.

Some of the A.T.A. officials were present to answer questions of various members of the association and very encouraging and helpful assurance was given by executive members who spoke on the matters of interest to all.

Among the decisions made was one to request the Department of Education not to place Normalites in schools until all experienced and qualified teachers available had been given positions.

Another resolution passed which showed a unanimity of purpose of the teaching body was to be resolved that this meeting express an appreciation and admiration of the loyalty and steadfastness of the Mundare school principal, Mr. Karl Kerner, well supported by his teaching staff, in the recent dispute between the A.T.A. and the Mundare School Board.

The matter of the one-day strike the teachers held at Mundare recently does not seem to be completely cleared up according to the report of the dismissal of teaching staff.

It was learned from reliable sources that the teacher shortage will be somewhat acute this fall, many changes of both high school and teachers of lower grade being required.

Grim Faces, Tightened
Belts Reflect Results
Of Pacific Aggression

ANKARA, Turkey, July 17.—(AP)—Japan was described yesterday by a neutral arriving from Tokyo as a cold and sombre country where people with grim faces are tightening their belts because of hardships brought on by the war.

The informant, whose name must be withheld, was a young woman of a neutral country. She was one of the first to arrive in the Middle East from Tokyo and she reached Ankara after a 13-day trip across Russia.

She said she was having lunch in Tokyo when the United States bombers attacked, but she paid little attention to the news because Japanese officials had sounded many false alarms.

She said she heard only machine-guns firing from the planes and no anti-aircraft fire. Later, she said she knew Japan had been raided because the government gave out no details except to say that American bombs fell in school grounds.

Tokyo is a huge, sprawling city covering some 225 square miles, and bombs falling in the industrial suburbs, which were the American raiders' targets, might be little noticed in the central district.

She related how foreign dignitaries made hurriedly to the docks from San Francisco for details of the raid which never were forthcoming.

She said men and women in the United States embassy were the first to their quarters for the first four months of the war and not allowed to receive visitors.

Lee Beats Starky In Torrid Match

STEADIER and more accurate with his irons, Pete Olynk of the Highland club sprang the major upset of the Alberta amateur golf championship when he handed Johnny Richardson of Calgary a three and two defeat Thursday afternoon at Mayfair Golf and Country Club.

Elimination of Richardson, Calgary open champ and the shotmaker who was expected to be the greatest threat to defending champion Henry Martell, left the club house experts groggy and hanging on the ropes.

Richardson was pouring sensational drives down the fairways, but he didn't have the same degree of command of his irons that Olynk did. What felled Lee on the 18th hole was a brilliant shot from the rough that landed in the hole.

City Unit Wins

High Praise On Camp Kitchen

Lt. Col. R. Walter Hale, M.C., officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, (R.C.A.), now in camp at Sarcee, near Calgary, received a very true tribute Thursday in a letter from Col. E. E. Knight, V.D., officer commanding the 4th Reserve Brigade, regarding the regiment's mess and camp kitchen conditions.

Col. Knight's letter to Lt. Col. Hale follows:

"The District Inspector of Catering reports that he found your Unit Kitchen in exceptionally good condition. He was also impressed with the standard of cleanliness, your methods in the preparation of food and the interest which is being taken in this branch of the work by yourself."

"This is a particularly gratifying report and reflects credit on the Unit which you command."

E. E. Knight, Colonel, Camp Commandant.

Lt. Col. Hale added by Lt. C. W. Miller, Quartermaster, has spent much time in perfecting the most up-to-date methods in army messing for the men, and the gratification of the home-baked on Lt. Col. Hale by the Reserve Brigade Commander is shared by the whole battalion.

At Work Here

Lt. G. E. Blair, adjutant of the 2nd Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, (R.C.A.), who has arrived here from Sarcee Camp, Calgary, to make arrangements for movement of members of his unit to and from camp.

Faculty, Board Officials

Clash Over Question Of Hiring Specific Teachers

Deadlock of the University of Alberta faculty of education and the Edmonton Public School board over the question of hiring specific teachers Thursday afternoon, resulted in the shelving of a plan for establishment of an experimental and laboratory teacher-training school in the Strathcona High school annex in Edmonton. Discussion and rejection of the proposal took place at a special meeting of the board in the Civic block Thursday.

Basic of the clash was the proposal of the University faculty of hiring its own teachers, and the majority vote of the board decided that three of the five teachers at the school should be staff members of the Edmonton school board. Agreement or compromise was impossible and the plan was of necessity dropped.

Final and substitute arrangements reached was that the faculty have a practice school, without the broader opportunities provided by an experimental school such as was sought.

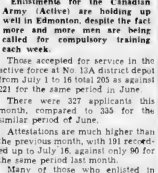

Here On Leave

Lt. Alex Watson, South Alberta Regiment, who is visiting in Edmonton, on leave from his regiment. He is a former member of "The Edmonton Bulletin" composing room staff.

Enlistments

Still Brisk At Depot Here

Enlistments for the Canadian Army (Active) are holding up well in Edmonton, despite the fact more and more men are being called to temporary training each week.

Those accepted for service in the active force at No. 13A district depot from July 1 to 16 total 205 as against 221 for the same period in June.

There were 327 applicants this month, compared to 335 for the similar period of June.

Attentions are much higher than the previous month, with 191 received up to July 16, against only 90 for the same period last month.

Many of those who enlisted in June were placed immediately on furlough.

There were 30 applicants for enlistment Thursday with 23 accepted.

Activity is generally increasing at the depot, with 119 men leaving by train for basic training at Campfire Friday morning. There were 36 men in Grande Prairie centre Thursday afternoon. Lt. Col. Alan Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A district depot, stated Friday.

Goes To Ottawa

PH-Lt. W. Paul Graham, officer commanding No. 3 Recruiting Centre, R. C. A. F., leaves Saturday for National Command headquarters at Ottawa, where he will confer with senior officers on matters pertaining to recruiting. He expects to be gone about one week.

Firemen's Tag Day

Successful Event

A grand total of $2,093.55 was raised through the tag day staged by Edmonton's fire brigade in aid of the dependents of the British fire fighters it was announced Friday by John A. Sloan, secretary-treasurer, City Fire Fighters' Union, No. 296.

Collections on tag day amounted to $1,806.23 and donations to $287.30.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hunt, Winnipeg, are visiting in Edmonton, registered at the Macdonald hotel. Mr. Hunt is president of the Mid-West Paper Sales Co. Ltd.

Heinsburg Youth

Still Not Found

A four-day search by a posse of 50 men and 100 dogs has failed to find any trace of Victor Kosak, 11, of Heinsburg, Alta. Heinsburg is situated about 45 miles east of St. Paul.

The boy disappeared from his home on July 9, and according to the latest report to Superintendent Bird from the R.C.M.P. detachment at St. Paul, they have been unable to find any trace of him.

The boy is a deaf mute and was missing for some time prior to his disappearance.

The posse is encountering considerable hardship owing to the prevalence of thick bugs, muskrats and numerous lakes in the vicinity.

Adjutant Arranges

Movement To Camp

Lt. Gerard Blair, adjutant of the 2nd Battalion, Edmonton Regiment (R.C.A.), and Regimental Quartermaster, J. Waite, have arrived here from Sarcee Camp, Calgary, to make arrangements for the second half of the unit to attend the second camp which opens Sunday, July 19.

It is expected the second half of the unit will arrive at the camp Saturday night for Calgary and will pass the first half returning home somewhere on the road between Sarcee Camp and Calgary.

Lt. Col. R. Walter Hale, M.C., officer commanding, will accompany the first half of the regiment, and will then return to camp early Monday morning to continue administration of the unit training.

The Nazis have stopped the education of Polish children, at the age of twelve.

Officers Near

End Of Course At Sarcee Camp

The following officers and NCOs of the 2nd Battalion, Edmonton Regiment (R.C.A.), now in camp at Sarcee, are nearing completion of a two weeks' course at the school of instruction being conducted under supervision of Maj. J. H. Towerline, Lt. J. B. Denley, Lt. H. R. Hamilton, and Acting Corporals W. Brown, T. M. Blacklock, J. D. Gifford, G. S. Irvine, G. W. Line, O. O'Brien, and E. P. Pond, A. L. Stevenson, and L. E. P. A. L. Stevenson.

The school is an elementary drill, small arms training, organization, tactical exercises, map reading and gas warfare. Wednesday was spent on the ranges when the school was having a rigid test with the Springfield 3006 rifle, firing 100 rounds at 200 and 300 yard ranges, including gas training, application and rapid fire.

The afternoon 55 rounds were fired with the Bren light machine gun in single rounds and in bursts at 200, 300, and 400 yard marks. Some good scores were posted with both the rifle and Bren gun.

Following the practice about those attending the school were given instruction in the use of the Bren gun, cleaning the rifle and Bren gun by Sergeant Major Anselme, who is the warrant officer in charge of the school.

Travellers Seek

Co-Operation Of Government

Clarifying the wartime functions of commercial travellers and offering a plan for closer co-operation with the government, the national committee of the Canadian Commercial Travellers has presented a brief in House of Commons, minister of munitions and supply, according to word received here Friday.

Essential functions of commercial travellers in wartime economy were listed in the brief as "interpreting government regulations and instructions to the public, and the Dominion to the other, showing how the life of existing equipment can be prolonged and the replacement thereof by curtailed."

The brief also included a plan for purchasing agents of expanded plants in the proper selection of materials, giving advice on suitable alternatives or substitutes where standard materials are not available, and aiding and promoting the efficiency of retailers.

While aware of the acute shortages of gasoline and tires, the travellers expressed a desire to be able to discuss with the minister proposals to "introduce a more efficient use of what has been allocated without substantially increasing the amount of our allocation."

Are we winning the war of nerves?

THE ANSWERS

LEN LONDON, salesman Britain and the United Nations are carrying the battle of nerves to the Axis. Whether Britain intends an early invasion of the continent or not, the powerful air raids on Cologne and Essen, the commando raids of recent months have left the Germans jittery. It appears to me we are getting the upper hand now.

PERCY JONES, cleric: The heavy attacks by the British, Canadian and American forces, are making the Nazis keep thousands of planes at home for defence of the country. The Germans do not stand up well under punishment and these raids may have the effect of breaking the morale of the German people.

KIDNEY TOMPKINS, farmer: We are gradually getting the upper hand both in actual fighting and in the battle of nerves, although I am convinced that this will be a long and desperate war before a victory is finally achieved.

Getting Around

With Jack Delong

It seems as if the Delirium Tremens will soon be just something horrible to read about like the black plague or long, scratchy underwear. It was announced a few weeks ago that vitamins would drive all the Walt Disney creations away in a few regular treatments.

Now along comes Dr. Nathaniel Bethel, a Montpelier, who has a bad case of the D.T.'s is helped a little by several harmless "shocks" does of electric current.

Just what will be done for horrible examples if the D.T.'s loses its Sunday punch, we can't guess. Perhaps the boys who are inclined to look upon the waltz when it gives its color to the cup will

Armored Unit In

Intensive Training

Day and night attacks, gas alerts, a stretch of patrol duty, and a six-mile route march, gave the members of No. 1 Armored Divisional Workshop, (R.C.A.), a sample of real battle conditions they will soon face, as the unit nears completion of summer training at Sarcee Camp.

The Edmonton unit took with it a small fleet of 15 cars and trucks for the whole training period.

When they returned to camp following a general drill, the members of the workshop had nearly forgotten they were workshop troops.

Vows Pledged At Home The Rev. R. Hubley

Home of the Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Hubley was the setting for a wedding ceremony, on Wednesday afternoon, when Vaughan Leblond became the bride of James William Dawson. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hubley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. J. Dawson. Mr. Hubley officiated.

For her wedding, the bride wore a red and white ensemble of beige and brown with no previous lines. Her accessories were of matching tones and she wore a corsage of Tala-man roses.

Miss Alice Coughlin was bridesmaid. She wore a red and white ensemble of light green French wool, black accessories and corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mr. Harry Baker was best man. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Foster received with the bride party wearing a white afternoon frock, accented with a matching bolero jacket and corsage of pink and white carnations.

Protests Use Young People In Industry

MONTREAL, July 17.—(CP)—

The national executive of the Canadian Women's League, in convention here, has passed a resolution "declaring the tendency on the part of industry to employ teen-age boys and girls is an abominable thing."

The resolution, one of an array aimed at a closed system of the juvenile, said that older, trained workers are not called upon "to the extent that is possible and desirable" and that boys and girls were being tempted away from school by the lure of earning money.

In another resolution the executive called for a campaign protesting against the radio dramatization of "stories which we consider decidedly degrading in that they feature light love and the like, frequently presenting in a most suitable manner, pagan philosophies."

The resolution added that other radio programs "feature obscene and vulgar stories of a most gruesome nature, depicting brutal and inhuman crimes, spiritually, mentally and physically."

Secret Magazine In France Urges Women To Unite Against Nazis

By ALAN RANDALL

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—Young French girl escaped from occupied France to join the Free French forces here and brought to Britain a story of a secret women's magazine which contains but a few lines of space on any of the subjects in which women are usually interested.

There is no fashion news, no beauty hints, or gossip on home furnishings or gardening. This first secret women's paper is the only one in occupied France since the Germans marched into Paris and only one purpose—to unite French women against the Nazis.

No one knows who is responsible for the paper. But in the quiet when it is passed quickly from one shopping basket to another, the housewife call the editor "Madame Bonne Femme."

Working from a cellar which she has not opened to "anyone on the outskirts of Paris," Madame Bonne Femme writes of human rights, the rights of one who knows hunger and of cold with the grimaces of one who has been her family physician.

"THE VOICE OF WOMEN"

Her magazine is two pages called "The Voice of Women." In it she urges women to attack Gestapo agents in towns where food coupons are rationed because there is no meat, or fat or bread to exchange for them.

Madame Bonne Femme tells the women just the food they need, such as: "Fifty thousand tons of what were sent this month from France to Germany."

Madame Bonne Femme in the paper asks her readers to risk death in producing it, so that they can learn why cotton frocks do not appear in the shops and why their children must go without shoes.

Eggs ARE NOT ALL LAID BY HENS

There are now many substitute sources of poultry laying eggs. Hens do not cackle when they lay eggs, but they crow. Eggs laid and hatched into chicks in this case the rooster was both father and mother of the chicks. Eggs-laying roosters look like other roosters, with combs, wattles, and wags. The ability to lay eggs is probably the result of glandular disturbances, scientists believe.

Entire Desert Line Is Filled With Activity

By RICHARD D. McNEIL
With the British Forces
At EL ALAHEIN, July 16

(BUP)—(Delayed)—The entire battle line from the Mediterranean down toward the Gattara depression is filled with activity. German and Italian forces have moved to the attack after days in which they had been in a defensive position. Empire troops and tanks had bucked into their lines in the desert.

German and Italian positions were numbered more than 100 miles ago. Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck made his stand on this line, still were drawing through the British lines this morning.

Empire troops and tanks started an advance on the central sector Tuesday night. They hammered away all night long, and by the early hours of Wednesday morning they had reached their objective—a high ridge from which the enemy had been able to observe the British movements.

MAKE CLEAN-UP
The Imperials kept on until they had wiped out or made prisoner all the enemy in the vicinity.

"We have given the enemy the worst knocking he has had yet, one of the men told me.

Prisoners started to come through in a long line of troops. Many of them were German, and many were wounded. Some were tired and disoriented. But one German said:

"It does not matter what happens here. We will soon have all the oil and minerals in Romania, and Germany will be unconquerable for LONE COMMANDER.

The spirits of the Imperials troops could not be higher. In units and individually they are taking the offensive at every chance.

An Australian, during the fighting around the Hill of Jew, the 1st A.I. also went out as a lone commander and bagged three enemy tanks by the night.

He used the Sikky bomb which has been produced for infantry use against tanks. Many tanks have been knocked out with it.

The Sikky bomb is a type of explosive blackstick. It was developed as a result of the success of the Australians in using the Molotov cocktail, an empty bottle filled with gasoline and filled with a fuse which is detonated on contact with the tank.

USED AT SHORT RANGE
The new bomb is less than 12 inches long. It has an explosive charge filled within a metal outer covering, and on its end is a metal stick. Its name is derived from the sticky chemical which explodes when the explosive charge is set off. This sticky, inflammable substance, resembling terebinth, seeps from the end of the stick.

The bomb does not explode instantaneously. A man can approach a tank, plug it in, and get out of range before the explosion.

Troops who have used the bomb think that once a tank is within throwing range, about 40 feet, it is a sure kill for a cool infantryman. Men too had been seen throwing the bomb with only the tank is within 30 feet, they say.

Woman Is Injured Fair Grounds Crash
Mrs. Estella Thompson, 10482 107th street, suffered injuries to her left arm when a "fly-plane" was riding at the fair crashed to the ground Thursday night.

Mrs. Thompson was taken to a city hospital for treatment by one of the fair attendants.

She was riding the "fly-plane" when the cable snapped, plunging the carriage she occupied to the ground. Her injuries were not serious.

Auto Crashes
Cyclist: Driver Blames Rider

A cyclist was injured and his bicycle completely demolished when he was struck by a car at the intersection of 100 street and Jasper avenue Thursday evening.

Nick Honan, 1031 112 street, reported to city traffic police that as he was crossing the 100 street intersection along Jasper avenue, he was struck by a car that appeared from between two standing trucks.

He told the police that the motorist blamed the action for the accident and refused to talk settlement of the damages. The bicycle was completely demolished and Honan suffered bruises to his shoulder and arm as he was thrown to the pavement.

Stripped—By "Meanest Thief"

The thief who stole this car in New York City wasn't fooling. He took three wheels and the spare wheel and tire, drained the gas tank—then emptied a five-gallon emergency gasoline can in the rear compartment. A policeman looks for fingerprints on what's left.

Experimental School Program Comes To Halt

Resolution which originally read that five new teachers be appointed to the High School staff for a term of one year ending June 30, 1943, and that the salaries of these teachers be paid by the board and two by the faculty of education.

The board revised the specific clause to allow for three of the teachers being drawn from the existing Edmonton Public School staff, with the final result that the entire proposal was cancelled.

Full recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools that the Faculty of Education be granted the use of the Strathcona High School Annex for the year from August 1, 1942 to June 30, 1943, as an experimental school be approved on the following conditions:

1. That students of Grades 10, 11 and 12 be housed in the building.
2. That no alterations or additions to the building shall be made except with the approval of the board's superintendent of plant, and the faculty of education will bear the full cost of any change or approved.
3. That five new teachers be appointed to the High School staff for a term of one year, ending June 30, 1943, and that the salaries of three of these teachers be paid by the board and two by the faculty of education.

4. That the operation and maintenance costs of the building during the period it is used as an experimental school shall be borne equally by the faculty of education and the Edmonton Public School board.

5. That the faculty of education shall arrange with the department of education for one additional public school pupil for the opening of school in September, 1942.

Under the substitute arrangement, Grade 9 students are to be taught in the practice school to be operated in the Garneau annex.

Attending the meeting which presided over by Trustee Einar Gunderson, in the absence of the chairman A. E. Otletow, Dr. Milton E. Luzzatto, dean of the faculty at Edmonton, and the University of Newland, president of the government representatives of schools, teachers' representatives and board members.

Edmonton teachers' representatives expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the experimental school in principle but viewed the proposal that no teachers on the Edmonton teaching staff being appointed in the laboratory school.

and found that the Strathcona High School annex would serve as an excellent experimental school. He declared that with the likelihood a teacher shortage probably becoming acute before this year is half over, he regretted a compromise could not be reached.

He pointed out that because the student teachers at the University are taking courses in other faculties the opportunity no longer existed of sending the student teachers to rural schools for practice training.

The proposal for establishing the school, arose out of a need of the faculty for an experimental school, and an interest by the government in the plan as advanced.

Cattle Exported Shows Increase

Value of 60,375 head of cattle exported from Alberta for the ten-month period ended April 30 last totalled $2,502,211, as compared to $2,135,497 for $1,840 head exported for the corresponding period in 1941, according to figures received from the provincial department of trade and industry.

Export of horses showed a slight drop for the period under review, 4,070 head valued at $256,410 being exported during the 10 months as compared to 4,514 head valued at $282,240 for the corresponding months in 1941.

On motion of Trustee Doreen Fraser it was unanimously agreed that no further action be taken in regard to the experimental and laboratory schools.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL
Unanimous approval was then given allowing the University of Alberta to use the Garneau school as a practice school, the arrangements to be worked out by the Superintendent of Schools Sheppard and Dr. Luzzatto.

Sup. Sheppard was given authority to make such new appointments to the faculty of the school as he might deem necessary.

It was the last regular meeting of the board for the season.

receive educational warnings from parents that fine old standby, "Ten Rights in a Bus."

And best of all these tiny electric shocks are also good for folks who are a bit "ticked in the head," Dr. Berwick reports.

The scientists said it is quite a problem to put people under this kind of treatment where they are not confined to an institution. Perhaps a fellow could work out some kind of a system from a couple of radio batteries, carried in his pockets.

Every lunge he felt a spell coming on the pattern could "plug" in the old dome and give himself a couple of "shocks."

And if electricity is good for the free-minded how about this slogan: "It's the only thing that's good for the free-minded."

So if electricity turns out to be good for the free-minded, some fellow might get a couple of volts for the doll's from our "batteries." Or is that just for shocking?

Terrill Jacobs, housekeeper and tiger nurse of the All-Canadian Pavilion Land at the Exhibition, thinks he has a pretty soft corner for Alf Phillips, British lion tamer.

Jacobs plays around with 25 footed lions and tigers reveals lions each day and just yawns about the whole thing. But he thinks Alf Phillips really has a dangerous job.

Phillips was making his dive from a 15-foot high perch into the feet of water when Jacobs walked by. "There goes a chump! Taking his life in his hands," quoth the lion tamer.

Funny thing is, the word that is likely to happen in the future is a broken leg or arm and a few bad burns. And there only if things really go wrong.

But Jacobs can be chewed up plenty whenever those jungle cats get temperamental and that has been known to happen.

R.A.F. Offensive Against Reich Still Short Of Mark

By DEAN MIDDLETON
LONDON, July 17.—(AP)—Deploring as it has been in spots, Britain's air offensive against Germany still is short of expectations and still below the peak of striking power it must—and will—develop to become a decisive factor, air experts said today.

The appraisal of these sources, who would not permit their names to be used, is based on the 47 nights since the R.A.F. opened the Allied second front in the air with a mass attack on Cologne last May 26, the first of three 1,000-plane raids on Germany.

The R.A.F., co-operated with three-figure plane assaults. Associated Press tabulations show that beginning with the Cologne raid the R.A.F. has made about 8750 bomber-trips against Germany, in fulfillment of Prime Minister Churchill's promise to create "a Nazi industry 'relly by city'."

Only two raids with 1,000 or more bombers, against Bremen and Bremen—have been made since the Cologne raid, but all sources say they left those cities as devastated they can make little, if any, further contribution to Germany's war effort.

The air offensive, made at an announced cost of 381 bombers up to last night, is regarded by informed sources, however, as below expectations.

The raid they believed the high hopes raised when the United States appeared premature and "really intensive" attacks on industry in central and eastern Germany must wait for longer night of autumn.

GIVE REASONS
These experts agreed that three reasons explain the R.A.F.'s failure to keep up the 1,000-plane pace:

1.—Explicitly bad weather—air officers say the nights must be "really nearly perfect" or else targets are obscured and fog imperils the bombers.

2.—Drain on the bomber command by operations elsewhere—their heavy bomber and fighter fleets will divert German troops from the eastern front.

3.—Failure of the Allied air forces to produce a long-range bomber capable of scoring heavy damage in daylight attacks.

Think it was said, the R.A.F.'s scale apparently does not yet meet need for Russia.

RUSSIAN VIEWPOINT
Soviet experts here appreciate the immense damage bombers have dealt to German war plants but, in the opinion of some, are not so impressed.

"Only British and American soldiers fighting on the continent of Europe under the protection of their bomber and fighter fleets will divert German troops from the eastern front."

An R.A.F. commentator described two prime aims of Britain's bomber blows as:

On Guard

1.—The destruction of all industrial supplies to Nazi armies on the Russian front.

2.—The curtailment of the Nazi submarine menace in American waters by smashing the U-boats in construction and at home bases.

Towards these ends, the R.A.F. which forces much of Germany's armament, has been hit five times since June 1—once with 1,000 bombers.

Bremen, arsenal of the U-boat fleet, has suffered heavy losses, with more than 1,000 bombs in construction and at home bases.

Another barrier to such long-range attacks or swift transatlantic strikes in the Focke-Wulf 190—a formidable German fighter plane which British authorities say is superior to the Spitfire in certain altitudes.

As yet, they said, there is no Allied fighter with the combination of speed, low range and manoeuvrability to fight off the F-190.

National Prexy
Issues Warning
NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP)—President Ford of the National Baseball League yesterday fined pitcher Milton Brubaker of Chicago $25 and warned both Manager Les Durocher of the Dodgers and Jimmy Wilson of the Yankees for their conduct in yesterday's game at Chicago.

Brubaker was fined for throwing the ball into the Brooklyn dugout after taking a ride from the Dodger bench. The game, won 10-5 by the Dodgers, saw rival pitchers duelling off the batters' readiness and general bickering among the players.

G-MEN UNCOVER DEADLY SABOTEURS

Nazi Spies On Trial For Life At Democracy's Court

Here's the courtroom scene where the eight men accused of trying to sabotage democracy are on trial—the democratic way—for their lives. Trying the men are seven officers selected by President Roosevelt, left to right: (1) Brig. Gen. John T. Lewis; (2) Maj. Gen. Lorenzo D. Casser; (3) Maj. Gen. Walter S. Grant; (4) Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy; (5) Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship; (6) Brig. Gen. Guy V. Henry, and (7) Brig. Gen. John T. Kennedy.

A short-handled shovel, presumably one used to bury Axis explosives in the sand after enemy agents were landed by U-boat, is introduced as evidence, above, by Gen. Myron C. Cramer, right, during the Washington trial of eight men accused of being Nazi saboteurs. F.B.I. Agent Lemman, left, is being questioned about the exhibit. Third man is unidentified.

Shipwreck In The St. Lawrence

This picture, as gripping as a painting of castaways on a stormy sea, was taken of two survivors of the three ships recently sunk in the St. Lawrence by an enemy sub. These two men were adrift on their raft for hours before being picked up by rescue ship. In an attempt to work their way to shore, they rigged crude sails on their life raft. The river current however was so strong that time after time they were swept away from the shore where villagers were waiting to help them.

Bolster India

Natives of menaced India, curiosity overcoming their caution, clamber over tanks newly arrived in "greatest convoy ever to leave Britain for Far East."

Hot Steel—Iron Nerves

A Nazi shell bursts uncomfortably close to the British gun crew shown above, staging a rear-guard action outside Mersa Matruh, Egypt, while other defenders fall back to a stronger position. Undaunted by the exploding shell, the British soldiers load their own weapon for a shot at the Axis troops. Mersa Matruh was evacuated.

Delectable

Dolores Moran—blonde, beautiful and sixteen—in a period of three months was crowned Queen of the Butte County Fair, and winner of the Northern California Oratorical Contest. Then as if all good things come in threes, she got a coveted long term movie contract.

Oop Goes To War

We've got a tough guy on our side in Alley Oop of the Edmonton Bulletin's comic page. V. T. Hamlin, who draws the comic, paints Oop as the insignia of the "Ally Oop bomber group" somewhere in Florida.

Descendant Of Warrior Chieftain Is Married

The great-great-granddaughter of Chief Joseph Brant, warrior chieftain 200 years ago, was married June 13 to a member of an old English family. Left to right: Cameron Brant Monture, R.C.A.F., brother of the bride, Graham Kenrick Edward and his bride, Alice Roberta Monture, and Alice May Brant, flower girl. This historic Mohawk chapel in the cradleland of the bride's ancestors was the scene of the wedding. It is the oldest edifice of public worship in Ontario and was erected in 1736 by authority of King George III. A few feet away is the tomb of Chief Joseph Brant.

Gigantic Army Headquarters

Four buildings within a building for the U.S. War Department's new headquarters building at Arlington, Va. Pentagonal in shape, this structure, shown above, will be the largest office building in the world when construction is completed.

Murder In Ferry Command

By A. W. O'Brien

CHAPTER IX

INSIDE the letter addressed to John Drexel, Clyde Dawson found a white slip of paper bearing a set of fingerprints. Accompanying it was a brief note.

"John," it stated simply, "these are Statler's prints. I believe you will find the thumb print corresponds with the print found on the filing cabinet. Paul."

Paul? That didn't take much figuring—it was Paul Drexel, the corpse-mutilator he had captured in North Sydney. But how and when had Paul managed to put the letter with the fingerprints obviously taken from the hand? Dawson shook his head angrily. He was getting dense—of course. Paul Drexel had mailed the letter aboard the Caribou before departing and it had been sent to the battered, disheveled office.

Outside, a siren was sounding and an auto screeched to a stop. Hurried footsteps—he stepped backward again and opened the door. Four men were there, the leader a keen-eyed young man of about 28. He looked at the battered, disheveled investigator intently.

"Clad to see you—Mr. Dawson," the latter identified himself. "Please have a man guard this fellow and the woman, send another to the storeroom at the top of the second flight of stairs, and you accompany me—I'll give you a full explanation shortly. My credentials are all at the Edgemoor hotel."

The G-man followed him upstairs where Dawson, led him directly to the door of the room containing the chair and radio apparatus. It was locked. Dawson gripped for his keys in vain then applied his shoulder to the door twice. . . the third time the door gave way.

"Take a quick look around."

Hold Everything

"Crook!"

"As long as you're going to your mother's for something to eat, you could bring me back something, too!"

Curious World —By William Ferguson

"Please," he beckoned, "you have my word there's a gag here you'll be interested in. Right now I'm desperately anxious to get down with you to the War Supplies Department—wherever that is—and raid the other member, a girl who seems to be missing."

The G-man made up his mind quickly. "Let's go, Dawson."

The War Supplies Department was a good four miles away and Dawson noted to her clerk as they strode down Kingston Boulevard that it was 10:40.

The G-man's legs rushed him through an inquiry desk man into the personnel office. The manager greeted them.

"We want to see Miss Carol Fiske—immediately," Dawson said. The manager looked frankly curious but he turned to his large aides and ran a finger down to the girl's name. Picking up his phone he called a number.

"I want to speak to Miss Fiske please," he paused, listening for a minute. "Oh, very well, thank you."

The manager looked up at the staring men. "Miss Fiske is not at work—she sent a note to her local manager stating that her mother had taken suddenly ill last evening and that she was taking a night train. Miss Fiske did not say where she was going."

Dawson, although dejected and aching in every joint from his strenuous ordeal, enjoyed seeing the G-man machine in action at close range.

The agent in charge accompanied him directly to the Edgemoor hotel where Dawson, checked over the credentials Dawson had stored in the safe.

"Everything is apparently quite in order," smiled the G-man, "but my department will be quite insistent on demanding a reason for your not reporting sooner. As a matter of fact, you might easily have spilled any aspect we might have been straining on our own."

"Quite right," he agreed, "except that I had no way of knowing whether I was merely tracking down an unfortunate, now dead or not, or something big. Toughly I hoped to find out definitely at the Edgemoor house without being detected. You must admit I would have looked pretty good as a head of an investigation of a girl whose only offense might have been heart-throbbing over a 'hanged' man."

"Uh-huh, I guess I would have done the same thing," the other agent, "However, it's rush back to the happy little homestead and see what's cooking with our Henrie."

"That's an easy one to figure out. If the sender is in northern Maine, he's coming out to the Ferry Command plane en route to Newfoundland from Montreal."

"But why would they detain over Maine?"

"You maintain a popular delusion, my friend," Dawson replied. "There's no detainment. Take a look at that map up on the wall and you'll note a straight line from Montreal to eastern Newfoundland—this branch that three planes flew over him last night, four more this morning and good flying conditions are indicated for two days. . . that's a wicked right?"

"Sounds logical," the G-man affirmed. "This is really something interesting. By playing possum and leaving our men on the job around here we should eventually pick up leads to most of the organization."

Two other agents entered, half-dressed, a frightened and nervous-looking man of about 40 between them.

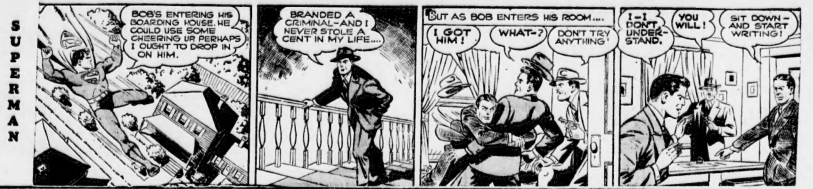

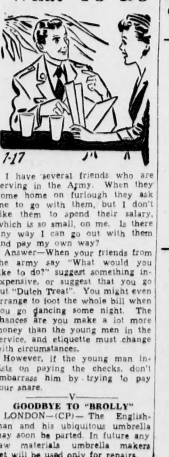

"Say his name is Sammy Bullock, sir. He drove up to the rear of a truck—claims he was to pick up a packing case."

"That was a Sammy supposed to pick up a packing case—with my body in it. And since the gang would hardly have entrusted such a cartage job to anybody but a trusted member of their organization, I'd suggest you put Sammy through my wringer—I'll squeak. His breed always does."

The chief agent signalled and the G-man took away the screaming Sammy.
